

Abstract of the disclosure

A printer 30a that was originally specified by the user Prints a transfer destination guide map, on which the location information of other printers is shown, when a portion or all of a print job is transferred to those other printers. The transfer destination guide map is further added with information useful for the user such as the expected time of completion for the print out, the number of printed sheets, and the route of pick up. The transfer destination guide map is insert-printed on the page position of the transferred page.